The Rabbit and the Drake

A long time ago, Rabbit and Drake were very good friends. They did many things together. They also kept their money together but did not live in the same house. Rabbit was the keeper of the money. One day Drake went to his friend's house. He said, "my dear friend, I'm coming for some of the money because I'm going to marry." Mr. Rabbit also said, I have spent all the money. I don't have a pesewa to give."Mr. Drake was surprised to hear what Mr. Rabbit said. Rabbit said to Drake again, If you come here again to ask for any money, I will beat you up." Mr. Drake did not say anything. He left for his house quietly, but he continued to walk with his friend.

One day Mr. Drake went to tell Mr. Rabbit, "I have seen a big pot of gold under a big tree at the other side of a river, so let's go and dig for it." I know you are not a good swimmer so I will put you at my back so that we cross the river. Is that so? Then let's go now." said Mr. Rabbit. Mr. Drake put his friend at his back and they started to cross the big river, Odeneho. When they got to the middle part of the river, Mr. Drake said to his friend, "you are greedy and a liar. If you don't give me my money, I will leave you here for the river to take you away." Mr. Rabbit cried and cried and cried. He said to his friend, please, if you do that I will die. We are very good friends. Let's go home so that I give you the money." Mr. Drake agreed. They came home and Mr. Rabbit gave him enough money.
